REPRISALS

This government is understandably and properly touchy about anything that might induce reprisals against United States prisoners of Japan. To that end, it is applying certain pressures to the moving picture industry to stop atrocity films. The office of censorship seems disposed to suggest deletions of outspoken opinions against Japanese character in newspaper stories submitted for its scrutiny.

In handling the recent outbreak of trouble in a Japanese internment camp at Tule Lake, government officials were apprehensive of repercussions at the expense of United States citizens in Japanese camps. Raymond P. Cronin, Associated Press bureau chief in Manila when the war began, has written that before he and other prisoners were sent home on the exchange liner Gripsholm they were given to understand that Japan expected them to be temperate in their statements about their experiences when they returned to the United States.

Reprisals constitute one of the most difficult and lopeful of all war problems. But it may be questioned whether an attitude that makes reprisals on helpless humans possible can be influenced by either tact or appeasement. Any Japanese inclined to commit atrocities won't be likely to improve their ethics out of consideration for their nation's repute abroad, already beyond redemption. The safety of our citizens remaining in Japan's grasp is worth almost any price, but until their captors have been beaten into submission to the civilization they spurned by going to war in the first place it cannot be assured.

THE GOVERNMENT MIND AT WORK

There have been many demonstrations recently of the government mind at work on public problems; anyone trying to stay in business could describe a dozen of them offhand without going further into ancient history than a month. This one is especially revealing and is called to attention because it has been made public by a letter from Secretary of Interior Ickes to The New York Herald Tribune protesting that newspaper's treatment of his part in the recent wage deal with United Mine Workers.

In his letter, the secretary explained that he, as collective bargaining agent for the government, did not grant the miners a $1.50 a day increase of pay in that deal. It was made, he says, within the formula laid down by WLB, "as would seem to be confirmed by the board's approval of it." The board already had granted $1.12 1/2 and the remainder, or 37 1/2 cents, was obtained by the device of cutting the miner's lunch period from 30 to 15 minutes and paying them at prevailing rates for an extra quarter of an hour. Thus, the extent of Mr. Ickes' responsibility, if any, is merely 37 1/2 cents' worth—and even that was confirmed by WLB, after the secretary of the interior had reached his agreement with John L. Lewis.

The Herald Tribune says it thinks "Mr. Ickes would split hairs with us, using an ax for emphasis." Certainly, government by subterfuge is further along as an art than it was before the deal with the miners proved the bureaucratic hand is quicker than the public eye.

MORE IMPORTANT THAN LEROS

Inside Germany, the defeat of the British-Italian garrison on Leros, last of the Dodecanese islands held by the Allies, may not comfort Germans for the costly retreat in Russia, but it is a victory—and any victory now is important to Germans. They have not had one for a long time.

It is hard to see where they may expect another. While their triumph on Leros demonstrated ability to mass power for a small offensive, their strength now is dispersed and opposed too widely for a major thrust. To make it, there would need to be a dangerous weakening of their holding strength at many other points. Certainly if it could be done the time and place would be immediately in Russia. This may be obvious to Germans themselves, as they hear about the "triumph" on Leros. While it might lead to something more important, for the moment it looks like a parrty to the opponent's ear which draws blood while the opponent's punches continue to do mighty damage in the German midriff.

MACARTHUR'S 10 PERCENT

Back home, his countrymen do not understand why Gen. MacArthur feels called on to apologize for his share in the conduct of the war. His latest revelation—that his area is getting "something under 10 percent" of war material being shipped overseas—is reminiscent of a similar statement many months ago which discounted to advance his ability to hold, much less push back the Japanese in the South Pacific, with the resources at his command.

Pending elucidation, which won't be forthcoming, we will have to ruminate on a certain similarity between this situation and the story about Abe Lincoln finding out what kind of whiskey Ulysses S. Grant liked, so he could buy some for his other generals. If Gen. MacArthur can keep moving forward against the Japanese in the South Pacific with less than 10 percent, there must be something about that percentage worth looking into—not that the other generals aren't doing all right, too, but just that they apparently need larger percentages.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, November 20.

THE CONFIGURATIONS of this day must be interpreted as generally adverse, with a sudden upheaval or disintegration that may prove uprooting to all sorts of holdings and create havoc or estrangement, either in business or private associations. There may be unpredictable and devastating events, which are likely to be bungled or aggravated by errors of judgment, snap decisions, anger, trickery and fraud. With these shrewdly handled there may be benefits.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a disruptive and upsetting time with all the interests and plans suddenly and unpredictably devastated. There may be a general reversal or turning of the tide into dangerous or haphazard channels. Such entanglements, or spading up may be rendered more difficult by mistakes, ill-considered judgments or unwise decisions, inciting to separations or estrangements all along the line. With emotionalism, nervous tension and impetuosity held in restraint there may be a chance of gain, but shun treachery, fraud and haste especially with writings or contracts. Deal with responsible groups.

A child born on this day may be reckless, changeable, erratic and emotionally impetuous thereby inviting adverse conditions or sudden smashes.

JONES URGES CCC FUNDS

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—While Congress debated the white-hot issue of prohibiting subsidy payments, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones urged today continuation of use of Commodity Credit Corp. funds for this purpose in 1944, rather than "abandoning something we have for something that may look better."

Support prices are needed by the farmer to meet production goals, Jones told the Illinois Agricultural association in a prepared speech.

"We all are working toward the same objective on the problem of preventing inflation," the administrator said. "Naturally there are differences of opinion as to the methods we should use."

"The use of Commodity Credit Corp. funds helped to get our record food production this year. It proved successful. It worked. We want to continue it for 1944."

Jones said the WFA is insisting on all possible allocation of steel for farm machinery for the remainder of this year and for 1944.

"Farm machinery production for the year beginning July 1, 1943," Jones stated, "will be at the rate of 80 per cent of the high production of farm machinery for the year 1940. This was second only to the production in 1937 which was the highest of many years. The big production in those two years provided a fortunate backlog of supply to help meet the situation of the past year or two when agriculture had to share the nation's steel supply with others."

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The Army has more money than it needs—13 billion dollars worth.

An Congress—getting over the shock with a figurative "well, I swan!"—tries to the occasion and demands lower taxes, closer scrutiny of federal expenditures and a step to the father draft.

In announcing that the War department is turning back to the budget bureau $13,163,519,030, Chairman Snyder (D-Pa.) of a house appropriations subcommittee handling Army finances explains the department believes the expansion program has reached its peak, that some drastic production cuts have been made and that its manpower needs have been revised downward by more than half a million men.

The Pennsylvania observes that while it is "welcome news to all of us who are disturbed over the mounting public debt," it has no immediate bearing upon the need to raise additional revenue. But Senator Downey (D-Cal.), expresses belief some hikes in taxation may prove to be unnecessary as a result of the implications in the Army kickback.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee says it is a flat indication "we don't need pre-pearl Harbor fathers." Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.), of the ways and means committee terms Snyder's announcement "amazing," adding: "It would be interesting to know how much Congress has over-appropriated for the Navy, the Maritime commission and other spending agencies."

SUBSIDY SQUAWK SOUGHT

Administration backers of a subsidy plan which has appeared doomed to defeat, report they intend to prolong debate in Congress with the hope if they talk long enough and loud enough, consumers may rally to their aid and rescue the program of federal fund payments designed to keep retail prices down.

STEEL STYMIE

Congress stands a good chance to have the final say in whether 1,100,000 non-operating employees of the railroads will get the eight-cents-an-hour increase they want. A strike vote is due to be completed within a week and some senators are pressing for a resolution which would give congressional sanction to the raise which has been approved by the carriers and the unions but disallowed by economic stabilizer, Vinson.

MISCELLANY

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) says Social Security taxes must not be used for war financing. Also, he says he will seek to have payroll levies frozen at the present one per cent rate. The new internal revenue collector reminds the taxpayers of a date to days before Christmas. The Office of War Information says there will be no additional supplies of butter in the next few months. And, says the OPA: If your shoe shop is holding a pair of shoes for you, better come across with the ration stamp within 30 days or the shoes will be on other feet.

Newspaper War Bond Advertising Favored

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) said today a personal poll showed an overwhelming majority of the house in favor of a government-financed program of advertising War bond sales in small newspapers. He said he was for urging prompt action on legislation to spend up to $25,000,000 for that purpose.

Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, said in an interview 158 members out of less than 200 he questioned, favored legislation similar to that passed Wednesday by the senate, and "a very small number have expressed themselves against it."

FARM SUBSIDIES

Editor, The News:

Much is being said about subsidies or "hand-outs" to the farmer to keep price of food at a certain standard which was in effect nearly 30 years ago.

First, let all understand that that it is preposterous to claim that rise in prices of food alone will cause inflation. The total of all income for 1943 is expected to be about 150 billion dollars, and the food income to the farmer for the same period is expected to be about 15 billion dollars.

By no sense of imagination can it be said that a 10 or 20 percent rise in food can upset our financial system. There is a much deeper significance to the subsidy question than to keep prices of food from rising. It is the question of placing a string direct from the White House to every farm home in America.

I have a book written by John Franklin Baker, who writes a newspaper column, entitled "What we are about to receive." He writes under the name of "Jay Franklin" and in this book he says the farmer is the cause of all of our troubles, the cause of panics, bank failures and in general as he says, "The farmers have been howling for relief since the dawn of our Republic."

He says further, "The farmer has arrogated to himself all virtue and all knowledge. He has planted prohibition in our vital, he has voted against progress, against civilization, against the city, against science, against art."

This man "Jay Franklin" was in President Roosevelt's first cabinet, along with Henry Wallace as secretary of agriculture, Rex Tugwell as assistant secretary, and it was the saying at that time that "we are going to make America over," and all those so-called reforms were started, such as killing little pigs, plowing under every third row, and others.

This book, "What we are about to receive," goes on to say the only remedy is for the government to take over all farms, tell the serfs who run them what to produce and at what price. It is a scheme which it thought would take a total of about 21 billion dollars for the government to do.

So that is the reason the New Deal does not want to give up subsidies, as that is one of the best methods suggested to gain government control, either by edict or ownership.

Those who listened to Lowell Thomas on the radio only this last Wednesday heard him say that the government now owns one-fifth of all the land in the United States. Thomas said the total acreage now owned by government amounted to 243 million acres, at a total cost so far of 5 billion dollars.

It would be too bad if the bonds we are buying are being used for other purposes than to prosecute the war. This "subsidy" is only an alibi. Every farm organization opposes subsidy. It is used only in exploitation.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Emotional Factor Causes Many Ills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"IF I WERE going to write a treatise on indigestion I would start out by writing a treatise on the nervous system."

This is an aphorism by Dr. J. F. Goodhart, one of the prominent specialists in the field of digestive diseases of another day. The idea it conveys will never cease to be true. Nobody is ever going to find a powder to cure acid dyspepsia permanently.

Nobody is ever going to invent a stomach tube which will work infallibly on all stomach cases. Nobody is ever going to invent some kind of an enema which fixes things up in one shot. Nobody, in short, is going to be able to neglect the man and treat only his stomach or bowels.

Rate Experiences

Oh! to be sure there are a few conditions in the abdomen that yield to physical measures alone. Every once in a while you see a fellow who has an ulcer that is nothing but an ulcer, that doesn't seem to be attached to a man and you can cure that with the Sippy treatment. Every once in a while a surgeon can remove an infected appendix and doesn't have to call the Christian Science practitioner in afterwards. Every once in a while you find a fine pancreatic cyst or a hepatoma. But any practitioner will tell you these are rare experiences.

Most forms of indigestion are due to emotional upsets. Indeed most forms of heart disease, uterine disease, kidney disease—every other organ you can name—are due to emotional disturbances. That is the truth that is at the bottom of Christian Science. In practice it works well. I use it. Every doctor uses it every day.

Difficult Subject

This is a complicated and difficult subject to explain. Of course there is such a thing as organic disease—cancer, tuberculosis, gallstones, measles, etc. And they can and must be treated with organic remedies. But most adult patients (children escape, thank heaven) are sick partly or wholly because they think they are sick. And nine-tenths of any doctor's practice is made up of this group. If he treats them entirely from the organic standpoint he fails.

Here are some other aphorisms taken like Dr. Goodhart's from Dr. W. C. Alvarez' volume "Nervous Indigestion and Pain."

"When a woman thinks she is ill when she is not, then indeed she is very ill."

"The practice of medicine is an art not a trade, a calling, not a business, a calling in which your heart will be equally exercised with your head. Often the best part of your work will have nothing to do with poisons and poisons, but with the exercise of the strong upon the weak, the right upon the foolish." Sir William Osler.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

The Crimson Thread by LILIAN LAUFERTY

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

I sat up then, triumphant and excited. I had it now, motive and all. Isabel's mother—the big doughy woman I had always distrusted—thought vengeance was hers. Mrs. Higgins had found a way to pay off all her old scores: She had murdered her enemies and she meant that Mrs. Knowlton should die for it.

I sat back deflated. Pete did not fit into that picture. Everard was nothing to Mrs. Higgins and he had been the first of what the newspapers had called the Havenhurst murders. (The police didn't count the dog.)

The fact that I kept coming to dead ends with my system. I deliberately turned off the logical reasoning that was intruding on the scene, and went back to the drift-and-dream method.

The handkerchief. The white bag. The little change purse someone had torn from the bag and buried in the woods. The large rubber gloves stained with a rusty brown that must be blood.

Mrs. Knowlton had recognized the gloves and the purse. She had claimed the purse. Fought for it. The things belonged together.

Romey had known about them all. He had strung the bits of evidence together and had made something of them. He had asked me to tell Dennis that the beads weren't rolling so much any more. He had a few of them strung on a thread.

I saw that thread dangling from Romey's hand. It was a crimson thread and I knew what had stained that vivid red.

It was eight o'clock and I got up to dress for dinner. I brushed my hair till it shone. I dressed in dramatic black malines flounces topped by a taffeta bodice with little green apple buttons to fasten it tight around me. I slipped into sandals and a gay little cape of the same luscious green.

But none of my festive preparations changed anything. I couldn't shake off the mounting uneasiness.

Over the melon cup au sauternes I told Dennis about Romey's beads and of all the disturbing things I'd been recalling on the borderland of sleep. I showed him my hand, scratched as badly as Nancy's throat and arm had been.

Dennis held my hand for a minute and I thought he might be going in for old-world gestures. I half expected him to kiss it. But he didn't. He let go of it suddenly and said: "Thank God for Bruce! But no more walks in Havenhurst woods till the killer is locked up."

"I wanted it to be the Commodore," I said in a burst of confession. "I've hated him for ten years. Now I'm sorry for him. I think Mrs. Knowlton's the evil genius of Havenhurst."

"Must we talk about the Havenhurst murders tonight?" I can't help thinking about them. I feel as if I'd walked out on the family. I should have gone home tonight.

"Want to walk out on this dinner and go home?" Dennis smiled but I gathered that he was not amused.

"Don't be angry. I'm jittery tonight. I feel as if a whole troop of Salem witches were riding their broomsticks over my grave."

"You're all in, dear. You need a rest. A trip. But now," he said, "Guess we'd better talk about Wickard Sees Danger In Extensive Farming."

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19.—An extensive "back to the farm" movement of unemployed after the war would endanger the nation's soil resources, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard said Thursday.

Wickard, here to address the National Association of Real Estate Boards, told a press conference he hoped manpower now in the armed services and war plants could be used after the war "to produce things people want in peacetime."

"I hope we don't have a great movement of unemployed back to rural areas," he asserted. "When too many go back to the farm, they farm too heavily—mine the soil—and destroy soil resources."

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stanley and daughter of Damascus were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds Sunday.

Boxes were packed for the Bethany orphanage in Kentucky at the meeting of the Friends Missionary auxiliary with Mrs. John Reynolds Wednesday afternoon. The group also sewed carpet rags.

Havenhurst after all, you've got to get it out of your system, Hilda. I've a hunch that a couple more of Romey's missing beads may be rolling around in your subconscious. You suddenly see if I can scious mind. Want me to rummage help you did 'em up?"

"Yes," I said, pushing back the heart-of-palm salad, which had gone practically untouched.

"Thanks for trusting me. I may do a bit of prying."

"Go ahead. I haven't any secrets."

"Not from me, I hope."

Dennis put his hand over mine again for a second and smiled gravely. Then suddenly he was as impersonal as if we were discussing a new commercial for the show.

"First, let's try to get at the meaning of the whole bloody business."

"Do you mean the motive?" I asked.

"Maybe. Four murders. A dog. A man. A nurse girl. A child. Know anything that ties those four together?"

"No, I don't think so," I answered dubiously.

"Come on, talk! Don't think. Say the first thing that comes into your head. Know anyone who'd want all four out of the way?"

"No."

"Think the roots of all four deaths are in the past?"

"Yes, I do think so."

"Why are you so sure about that?"

"I don't know."

"Who'd kill the red setter?"

"The Commodore or Mrs. Knowlton." My answer came fast.

"Why?"

"Because it reminded them of their grandson's dog."

"Now we're getting back to the ghosts and Salem witches."

Suddenly I was on the defensive. I realized I hadn't told Dennis that Hank Knowlton had killed himself. I hadn't believed it myself till yesterday, when Pam told Aunt Carrie and me how Hank had died.

Dennis pounced on this new information. "So young Hank Knowlton committed suicide—that brings in a new element, one I didn't know anything about." I felt sure he was thinking about Hank and was startled when he shot an abrupt question at me.

"What started this epidemic of killings?"

"I don't know."

"What new factors have come into the Havenhurst setup recently? Somebody touched off a time fuse. You think it was an old-time fuse, don't you?"

"Yes."

"All right. It was old. It lay dormant for ten years. Then it went off with a bang. Now, who were the newcomers at the beach this year?"

My answer sounded ridiculous, even to me. You, Aunt Carrie, Peggy and I were practically newcomers again after being away ten years. I paused and went on more slowly. "Pam was new. So were Josephine and Toya. And of course there was that boy Chan Foo."

"Pam. Always Pam," Dennis said slowly. "What's he to Pam?" I couldn't keep Pam's secret any longer. "Commodore Knowlton is Henny's great-grandfather."

Was young Hank Knowlton Henny's father?"

"So I'm told."

"Did Hank marry Pam?"

"She says he did. That's why the Commodore disowned him."

"For marrying Pam?"

"She was a dime-a-dance girl. Mrs. Knowlton made the Commodore throw Hank out and Hank killed himself."

"Wait a minute," Dennis said crisply. "That's where it begins. With the Knowltons. Hank was their grandson. He killed himself. The red setter's next. A Knowlton dog or the descendant of one, Pete, the Knowlton next of kin. Henny, a Knowlton child. It's always a Knowlton."

"How about the nurse girl?" I was asking questions now.

"Her death was a mistake. The poisoned candy was addressed to other Knowlton heirs—the only ones left now."

"Except Nancy, and she wouldn't harm her children—"

Dennis scowled, then he spoke it with a curt cynicism I'd never before heard him use. "Nancy wouldn't need to get her kids out of the way in order to inherit the Knowlton millions. They're her best claim to the money—say, by jingo, Hilda! You're a genius. You've given me an idea."

"Let me give you another," I said with a sense that Dennis was going a bit too fast. "Nancy wouldn't have killed Henny even if she knew Pam's daughter was closer to the Knowltons than the twins are. Furthermore, Nancy couldn't have killed Henny. She was in Vermont when it happened. And Greg's in the clear, too. Romey was with Greg and Jack from eight till eleven Saturday morning. You saw Henny alive at ten—"

"I saw a child in a blue and yellow bathing suit diving from the Club float," Dennis declared.

"That was Henny, still alive at ten, when Jack and Romey were at the Everard house—"

"Hilda, we said we were going to ignore time and alibis."

"That's all very well, Dennis, but one can't ignore the evidence of one's own eyes."

Dennis stared at me. "One can misinterpret it, Hilda."

I frowned. "I don't know what you mean. After all, you saw Henny diving from the Club float—"

Dennis interrupted me. "Let's stick to facts. I saw a child in a blue and yellow bathing suit diving from the Club float."

I gasped. "Dennis! What do you mean? You know Henny—"

"It's all of three hundred yards from the Club veranda to the float, isn't it?" Dennis asked grimly, and went on without waiting for me to answer. "The child in the familiar blue and yellow suit was a long way off. Everyone said it was Henny. Everyone knew Henny swam at that hour every day and that she swam like a fish."

Scrap Metal, Paper Drives In County Progress Favorably

Scrap metal and waste paper are particularly wanted in the scrap drive under way in Columbiana county, according to Floyd Lower, county salvage chairman.

Scrap metal includes iron and steel and other metals but it does not include wire fencing or wood attached to iron. Paper must be securely tied in bundles. Newspapers and magazines should be tied separately. Persons having scrap metal or paper to be collected should report to their local salvage committee chairman.

Following are the chairmen of the salvage committees:

Arrangements were made for exhibits of antiques, handicraft and stamp collections and poster advertisements by the school children. Prizes will be offered for baked goods and farm products.

A "liars' convention" or "tall story" contest is being planned for Thursday morning with all entries to be handed to Mr. Ellyson. Also included in the program are informative talks, demonstrations, playlets, readings and musical selections.

Capitalists Doomed, By Changing World, Farm Bureau Hears

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Nov. 19.—The world today is witnessing the twilight of the monopoly capitalistic system, Murray D. Lincoln told delegates to the 25th annual meeting of the Ohio Farm bureau federation today.

Lincoln, secretary of the organization and a delegate to the International food conference, said "the common people all over the world are on the march for security to end poverty amidst potential abundance—to attain a measure of freedom from want."

"From all my reading and observation," Lincoln declared, "I am led to believe that we are witnessing the twilight of the monopoly capitalistic system as we have known it."

"One fact stands clear above all the others," Lincoln stated. "If this war has done anything else it has thrown into bold relief the direction in which we are going. It has crystallized the hunger and determination of the great mass of American people for abundance and security. They don't want Communism or Fascism. They don't want something for nothing. But they want their share of the wealth, abundance and security this country can afford. And the growing extension of government controls gives us a clue to how they mean to get it."

A Liberty ship has been named for Mason L. Weems, early biographer of George Washington and reputed originator of the cherry tree story.

Hearings Scheduled On New Ohio River Dams

EAST LIVERPOOL, Nov. 19.—Col. C. L. Hall, War department Ohio river divisional engineer, today announced a public hearing in Pittsburgh Dec. 1, to "consider the type and location of a proposed new dam and locks to replace Ohio river dams No. 7, 8 and 9."

Planned as a postwar project, the new dam has been proposed for one of two sites, at the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line here, or near New Cumberland, W. Va.

Present dams which may be replaced by the project are at Midland, Pa., five miles north of East Liverpool and at Newell and New Cumberland, W. Va.

Indicating the state committee was hopeful of avoiding a contest for the gubernatorial nomination, which Bicker has announced he will not ask—came from Schorr. He said if there was "any possibility of widespread agreement throughout the state, the committee will go further in its endorsement of candidates," at another meeting to be held soon.

GOMEL MAY FALL

storming of Korosten and Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky for his success at Rechitsa.

German Forces Split

Capture of Korosten, 60 miles from the old Polish border, split German forces in the Ukraine from those in White Russia. The fall of Rechitsa narrowed the last escape corridor open to the beleaguered Gomel garrison to less than 25 miles.

Russian columns were reported converging on Gomel from the north and south and its fall appeared inevitable.

Stalin ordered a double salute of 12 salutes from 124 Moscow victory guns to celebrate the Russian triumphs.

Occupation of Korosten followed a two-day battle in which Red army troops forced the Uzh river to blast the Germans from that important rail junction on the Leningrad-Odessa and Kiev-Warsaw railroads, a Russian communique said. Whole trainloads of German war stores were captured inside the city, which lies on the southern edge of the Pripiet marshes. An entire German regiment was reported annihilated.

In addition to cutting the last German north-south railway short at the Polish border, Vatutin appeared to have anchored his right flank against the Pripiet marshes. He was thus able to concentrate strong forces on his left to meet German counter attacks between Zhitomir and Fastov to the south.

Here, where Soviet forces were forced into a slight retreat Wednesday, German drives yesterday were hurled back with heavy losses, the Soviet communique said. Inside the Dnieper bend, further to the south, the Russians said their troops killed 1,200 Germans. Red army units were said to be within 22 miles of Nikopol in this sector.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

cant thing is that while the Red front bent, it held and surged back.

THE GERMAN attack on the flank of the Zhitomir salient was calculated to give them time to withdraw their own imperiled right wing to the south. That right flank bulges out towards the east in a great arc more than 600 miles long.

The Zhitomir salient is stretching out a long, wry arm that threatens to turn this arc into a huge trap in which great numbers of Germans might be caught. Within this is the smaller Dnieper bend trap which the world has been watching tensely for several weeks.

Rather paradoxically, such German counter-attacks are really to the advantage of the Muscovites. Every fresh effort of this sort further weakens the Nazis, who no longer have the reserve man-power or the equipment to do more than stand off defeat for a while longer.

Well, so much by way of explaining the significance of Hitler's display of strength. The Russians still retain the initiative and are doing a masterful job of cutting to pieces that ever lengthening German front which hourly becomes more difficult to defend. Superoptimists and wishful thinkers can resume their placid contemplation of the show.

The fresh Red triumphs north of Zhitomir are of great importance—fully warranting the roars of triumph which last night burst from the throats of 124 victory guns in Moscow. The capture of the railway junction of Korosten, 60 miles from the old Polish border, has severed communication between the German armies in the Ukraine and those in white Russia to the north.

The fall of Rechitsa to the north places the invaders in the Gomel sector, with its strategic railways, on a tough spot.

Yesterday was another grand day for Russian arms.

FRENCH CRISIS

his death, unless the new constitution is drafted is ratified.

It is known privately the constitution intended to restore a Democratic regime with hopes for improvements over the 1875 legislation. By its wording, the old constitution made possible turnover after turnover of French cabinets and thereby contributed to French inefficiency and unpreparedness for the war which came in 1939.

The refusal to broadcast Petain's speech over the Vichy radio, and the failure of his decree to appear in the official gazette has created a crisis.

The marshal reportedly has sent his resignation to the cabinet.

Laval and his advisors continued today their efforts to change his mind, and although the result cannot be foreseen, Petain at least has thrown down the challenge.

The text of the address he had prepared for delivery was published in the Swiss journal De Geneve today.

Sciotto Ordnance Plant At Marion Will Close

MARION, Nov. 19.—The Sciotto Ordnance plant, employing 1,900 civilians, will be closed by Dec. 31, Capt. J. R. Thompson, plant commanding officer announced today. The plant makes small arms ammunition.

Six hundred civilians have already been discharged from the plant, and work will be cut down gradually so the remaining 1300 workers will be released by the last week in December, Thompson said. All civilians are employees of the United States Rubber Corp., which has assisted in the plant's operation.

Helps For Safety
Programs Offered
To County Groups

"Program Helps" are offered to all organizations by the Columbian County Safety committee for their programs on safety as announced by the committee at the monthly meeting in the Lisbon court house. Some of them will be appropriate for use at every meeting.

Such "helps" as moving pictures, lectures, and discussions on safety are supplemented by entertaining features as well as educational in the form of Truth and Consequences, True or False quiz, Safety Spell Down, Agree and Disagree questions, and an entertainment feature, the "Find and Fix It" party.

Any organization desiring any of these helps for their programs should write to Earl Shade or Erma Ramseyer, co-chairmen of the County Safety committee, court house, Lisbon. Miss Ramseyer said there are numerous organizations that will desire such helps and suggested especially granges, Farm Bureaus, Parent-Teacher organizations, women's groups, and community meetings.

The safety program in Columbian county is part of the over-all programs of the County Agricultural council composed of representatives of all agricultural and related organizations in the county. The immediate objective is to promote safety by emphasizing the subject during the national campaign in January. All local organizations are being requested by their respective state conventions to make safety the main phase of their January programs.

Members of the committee are Clarence Crosser of the grange; G. W. Wienstock and Alvin Cope of the Farm Bureau; Dorothy Sweeney of the Farm Security administration; James W. Pendry and Earl R. Shade of the Soil Conservation service; Erma Ramseyer, extension service; Mrs. Russell Miller, Home council; Mrs. Zeppernick, AAA; L. J. Lewis and Tom Mercer of Salem; and Norman Ward of Lisbon.

ARMY REFUND

May said he intended to call before his committee probably next week Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, to detail plans for administer new father-deferment legislation passed yesterday by the house and slated for senate action next Monday.

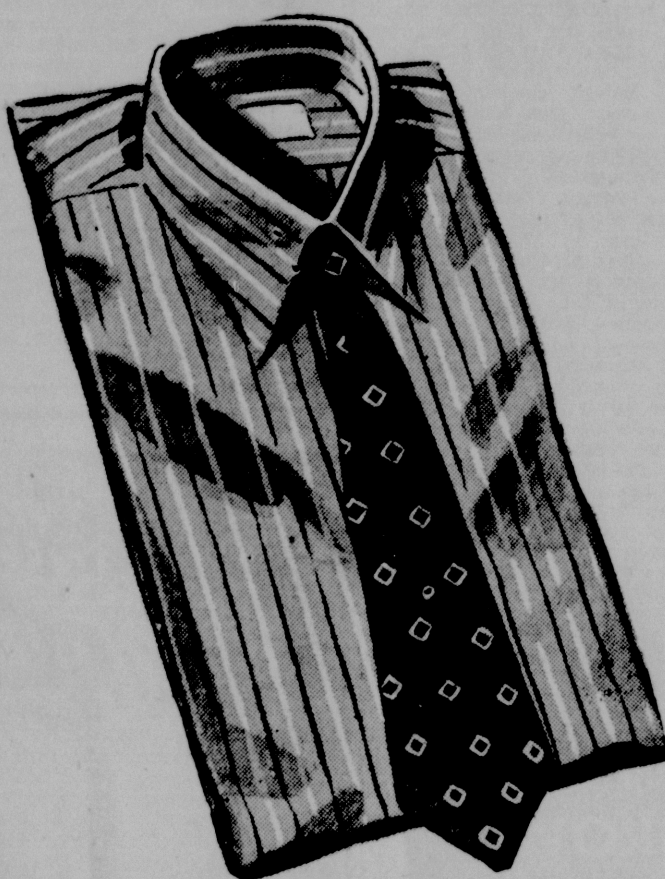

The Snyder announcement, coupled with a recent series of ordinance plant shutdowns, suggested even more extensive reductions in war production are in prospect. It was the first official indication that overall production-for-war plans are being sharply curtailed. Drastic shifts already have occurred, but military officials have insisted they reflected merely changing needs, a shift of emphasis but not a reduction of total output.

The War department savings to be turned back to the Treasury at the end of the current fiscal year were accounted for as follows:

Reduction of the projected size of the Army from 8,200,000 to 7,700,000, $1,946,039,000; reduced armament and equipment programs, $8,266,769,000; plant facilities, $780,447,000; modification and possible deferment of certain parts of the airplane program, $2,086,069,000; miscellaneous projects, $88,205,000.

LISBON, Nov. 19.—A group of Lisbon village officials met today in New Philadelphia with R. S. McCulloch, state highway division engineer, to discuss a plan for obtaining state aid in the improvement of five Lisbon streets which are parts of state routes.

The streets are deteriorating rapidly because of the heavy traffic of coal trucks moving from the local strip mines to neighboring cities, the movement of war materials between points and the heavy flow of army equipment over the routes.

Those attending the meeting are Mayor G. C. Rauch, Council President H. G. Arter, Councilman Graham Kearney, State Resident Engineer George Gonzales and County Commissioner Clarence L. Robinson.

The streets to be improved include Lincoln way and Jackson, parts of U. S. Route 30; North Market, Route 45; Jerome and Lincoln, parts of Route 164.

O'Neill Still Holds Margin In Re-count

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 19.—Democrat Ralph W. O'Neill, who had a six-vote margin for mayor of Youngstown at the end of the first tabulation, held a seven-vote margin today after a recount of ballots in 88 of 235 precincts. The recount resumes this afternoon.

The board of elections reported the total as 21,700 for O'Neill, and 21,693 for Arthur H. Williams, his Republican opponent, who requested the recount.

O'Neill's margin wavered from as much as 13 votes in the lead to one behind the board said.

Only one or two votes were invalidated in each precinct, most of them because voters used pen and ink rather than pencil, a board spokesman added.

Lift Restrictions On Butchering of Hogs

LISBON, Nov. 19.—George Rogers, member of the county Farm War board, has received notification from the state Food Distribution administration that slaughter restrictions on the butchering of hogs have been lifted for a 90-day period, effective Nov. 17.

The suspension of hog-slaughter regulations does not apply to distribution of the meat under OPA food rationing program, under which farmers killing hogs and selling the meat must obtain ration point value for it.

Under the suspension granted by the administration farmers may kill as many hogs as they wish without securing a slaughter permit, and may use the meat themselves, sell it to consumers or to dealers. The announcement applies only to hogs, permits still being required for the slaughter of cattle and sheep.

Winning Long Fight Malaria Control At Fronts May Banish Disease In Nation

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, Nov. 19.—The fall so far of foreign malaria has led to the American civilian population, even though several thousand malarious troops have been brought home for hospitalization, offers evidence war-born malaria measures eventually can banish the disease as a problem of the United States.
This was the prediction today of Gen. James S. Simmons, chief of the Army's preventive medicine division, who said wartime programs instituted by the armed forces, the U. S. Public Health Service and other agencies could achieve at objective if coordinated into a single national program that could be carried on after the war.
The general said the programs in effect ranged from establishing virtually mosquito-free "safe zones" around military camps and hospitals to the training of hundreds of civilian doctors to help with malaria in cast of troops among cured troops.

Speaks At Conference
"Since the war began, the people have been fearing the spectre of malaria brought back by troops," he said in an interview before he delivered the presidential address to the National Malaria Society, "but there has been no evidence so far that the disease brought back by several thousand troops in the army alone has spread to the civilian population."
"This is one proof of the effectiveness of hospital quarantine and control measures inaugurated around hospitals and camps to kill the mosquitoes that spread the disease."

"The fact that malaria incidence is among our troops remaining in the continental United States is the lowest in the history of the army is proof that large masses of people can be protected from the malaria that is present in this country."
He said war-developed mosquito repellents and sprays and gases capable of killing the insects were doing much to protect the troops.
"These protective elements are now limited to the armed forces," he said, "but when they become available to everyone after the war, they will represent the biggest contribution of the medical department to the people—a contribution even greater than blood plasma."
"It is my belief," he told the society, "that it is possible to make the United States a malaria-free country, one which will exemptly to other countries what can be accomplished in the eradication of one of the world's most serious diseases."

Lisbon's War Fund Drive Getting Closer To Goal

LISBON, Nov. 19.—The National War fund drive today neared the $5,000 goal with subscriptions totaling $4,600, G. C. Rauch and Lynn Riddle, co-chairman, announced.
The national relief societies will benefit to the extent of $3,000 from the local campaign, while local charities will receive $2,000 to be divided $1,200 to the Youth association, $400 to the Boy Scouts and $400 to the Salem hospitals.

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—With the hopes that lady luck continues to enjoy our company for the last big Saturday of the 1943 football season we give you:

Iowa Pre-Flight-Notre Dame—Until three days ago we were tempted to pick the Seahawks to win this battle of unbeaten gridiron forces. But now that Mackinick is injured and three other regulars have been transferred, we give you the Irish and their ninth successive triumph.

Ohio State-Michigan—There was a day when this one would have been the talk of the nation. But the Buckeyes are not in the class of the Wolverines this season so it's Michigan in a romp.

North Carolina-Duke—The Tarheels surprised by whipping one of the north's best, Penn, last week but—Duke in a close shave.

Purdue Once Again—Purdue-Indiana—The old oaken bucket and at least a share in the Big Ten title goes to unbeaten Purdue.

Louisiana State-Tulane—Tulane hasn't got what it takes. L.S.U.

Missouri-Kansas—The Tigers aren't going to let a weak jay-hawker outfit ruin their slim chance of repeating as Big Six king, Missouri.

Wisconsin-Minnesota—The Gophers.

Colorado College-Colorado—The unofficial Rocky Mountain championships go with this one and it's the Colorado college.

Dartmouth-Princeton—Dartmouth.

Brown-Army—If Doc Savage is right look for a free-scoring battle with the Cadets on the long end.

Colgate-Columbia—Colgate.

Marquette-Great Lakes—A good workout for the sailors before meeting Notre Dame next week. Great Lakes.

Still holding the rabbit's foot tightly: Iowa over Nebraska; Penn State over Pittsburgh; Rice over Texas Christian; UCLA over St. Mary's.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The 135-pound boxing division wasn't misnamed "lightweight" when it should have been "welterweight."

Because he says, "the lightweight title always is in a welter of confusion."

That leads right up to the fact that Robert Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack will fight for the New York-Pennsylvania version of the title tonight and 10 days later Sarany Arany, who retained the N. B. A. championship by whipping Sugar White, will appear merely as a "leading contender" when he fights Rocky Rubin in the same ring.

The lightweight and bantamweight titles are the only ones that haven't been "frozen" for the duration, which explains the concentration of chaos.

LIGHTWEIGHT THINKING
If Beau Jack wins tonight's brawl, he'll be only the second 135-pound champion who regains the crown from the same man who took it from him. The other was Lou Ambers, when he beat Henry Armstrong.

OBSERVATION POST
Baseball Secretary Leslie O'Connor reveals that some major league players received as little as $3 a game for playing in the Southern California winter league. Bet Branch Rickey didn't have anything to say about those big salaries.

Young Johnny Lujack really is lifting Angelo Bertelli's shoes at Notre Dame. When he needed a new pair of gridiron shoes recently, equipment manager brought out a pair of 10 1/2's that Bertelli had ordered out but never had used. Manager Tommy Thomas of the Baltimore Orioles recently wrote to 21 ball clubs asking if they had any players to sell. Seventeen answered that they were interested in trades but not in selling for cash.

Hillsboro, Ohio, hitherto noted only for turning out Joe Hiestand, trapeze artist, and this columnist's old man, who has three representative on an Army baseball team which piled up a year-long string of 27 victories, starting on Fiji and ending on Guadalcanal with a single loss to a Marine outfit. The C. O. of the unit, shortstop, and Corp. Kenneth Johnson, outfielder, all hail from Hillsboro.

Fund Aids Camp
YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 19.—Not profit from the national amateur baseball tournament held here Sept. 11-19 amounted to $883 and will be turned over to the athletic fund at Camp Reynolds, near Sharon. Mayor William D. Spagnola said today.

GRIDIRON BANQUET TICKETS ON SALE

Club Members Get First Chance; Sale to Public Will Begin Dec. 1

Tickets for the Boosters club football banquet which will feature Ohio State's Paul Brown as speaker, went on sale to club members today, following a meeting of the directors at the Memorial building last night.

The event is scheduled to be held in the Memorial building Monday evening, Dec. 13, with Coach Paul Brown as the speaker and the entire football squad, varsity and junior varsity, as guests of the Boosters club.

Accommodations for 300 persons have been arranged for the stag affair, and tickets will be made available to the public after issuance is made to the 80-man football group and to the 170 members of the club.

Joe Kelley, president of the organization, said today he expected approximately 60 tickets to be available to non-club members. The directors also announced that membership to the club is still open to the public and that a new membership would entitle a person to purchase admission to the banquet before the tickets are placed on general sale.

Tickets may be purchased from Joe Kelley, Jim Primm, Arthur Brian and Emory Smith. Boosters club members should bring their membership cards with them when purchasing tickets, Kelley said.

ONLY THREE OHIO TEAMS IN ACTION

Ohio State Goes to Ann Arbor, Baldwin-Wallace Goes to Oberlin

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Nov. 19.—Only three Ohio college football teams will be in action tomorrow. Ohio State meeting a more powerful Michigan squad at Ann Arbor and Baldwin-Wallace going to Oberlin for a chance to share in the Ohio conference championship.

Oberlin, already topping the state grid with six victories and no defeats of which three contests were with conference opponents, needs only a tie to be undisputed league champ. Baldwin-Wallace, having won two and lost one in the league, could share the title by defeating Oberlin.

Paul E. Brown's Buckeyes have no serious injuries, but at full strength they still are decided underdogs after a losing season.

About 50,000 fans are expected to see the game starting at 2:30 p. m. Eastern War time.

Based on meetings with common opponents, the record shows the Bucks will need everything they have just to keep Michigan from running up the score, but the traditional annual game sometimes reveals unexpected power in the supposedly weaker team.

AEF Sports In England

LONDON—Track rates high as one of the numerous European Theater of Operations sports.

Meets are held regularly at White City stadium here and only recently one was held on a reconditioned bit of blitzed area near St. Paul's cathedral and the competition and spectator interest were keen.

Corp. Aaron Williams of Muncie, Ind., who won the high jump, was one of the stars in a recent meet. In another meet, Americans met an English team composed of members of the RAF, British Army and Navy and Canadian forces.

Golf is another popular sport. Thanks to an agreement between the Red Cross and authorities at many British courses, soldiers are permitted to use the facilities without charge, paying only small fees for use of clubs and balls.

U. S. Golfers Excel

Six golf teams have been organized. One, representing the Red Cross, Hans Crescent club in London, has played 14 British teams, including Scotland Yard and the Metropolitan Police groups, and has been beaten only once. Players include Corp. Dick Austin, of East Lynn, Mass., former Massachusetts state amateur champion; Pvt. Ricky Samlin, of Delaware Water Gap, Pa., who was pro at the Gap's country club; Pvt. Stanley Rensen, former assistant pro at the Pononok Country club, Flushing, N. Y.; Sgt. Eli Thomas, Cranston, Pa., and Corp. Donald Piene, of Springfield, Ill.

Swimming, fishing and boating have many devotees among the soldiers to whom the Red Cross athletics department has turned over hundreds of swimming trunks. Besides the inland waterways and the lakes there are many indoor and outdoor pools available to the Americans.

Organized swimming competition starts with battalion or regional meets, after which sectional or base command meets take place. The winners advance to the ETO championships.

Wayne Marshall Competes

One of the most active competitive swimming groups was developed around the central base command. Victors over several crack British squads, the team boasts Lt. Taylor Drysdale of Detroit, former U. of Michigan star who swam in the last Olympics, and Maj. Marshall Wayne of Miami, Fla., former national AAU diving champion.

Outstanding swimmers at other base commands include Corp. Fred Devine of New London, Conn.; Lt. Fred Swihart of Lincoln, Neb.; Corp. Dick Embickson of Austin, Minn.; Pvt. Zon Haralovich of East Orange, N. J.; Pvt. Abe Toubin of Brooklyn, and Lt. Nat Kantor, former NYU star.

In a recent sectional meet, Pvt. Bill Sawon of Steubenville, O., was the winner over Pvt. Al Molzahn of Chicago. Sawon is a Ranger who was wounded in North Africa. The program here also includes swimming under combat conditions. Men are taught how to swim in burning oil and how to utilize clothing and equipment for buoyancy.

Crews Race, To

Boating, too, is popular with servicemen. Occasionally rival crews men promote crew races on the Thames.

An Eighth Air Force team raced a Metropolitan police crew recently but the Americans, coached by Capt. Ed. Litchfield, former Harvard crewman, lost. His crew consisted of Lt. Veryl Bevelacqua, Scarsdale, N. Y., coxswain; Corp. Tom Budington, Old Greenwich, Conn.; Lt. Lawrence Nichols, Winton, N. Y., and Sgt. Jim Braddock, Jr., San Diego, Calif.

Boxing presents a picture to cheer up any fight manager. Guillermo Hernandez, the capital's chief impresario, says boxing has "stood in bed" for five years but is beginning to wake up.

Hernandez says two things have pumped life into the fight game: honest fights and more boxers from the provinces. Mexico City is like New York—nobody admits being born here. And if a fighter from dear old Jalisco is carded, everybody who claims that state as home shows up and screams for him.

Incidentally, don't expect Joe Louis to lose his heavyweight title to a Mexican. Hernandez says a Mexican will never win a world championship in anything heavier than the welterweight division.

"Our men are just not that big, but they are faster." A full-grown Mexican boxer weighs 110 lbs. maybe. That is one reason our boxers do so well in the U. S.—they are older and have reached their full development and they go up against young boxers.

SOCCER—The "futbol" which is Latin America's favorite sport has not shown any increase this year, partly because there isn't much room in the parks. The largest field seats 18,000 and possibly 23,000 if the game is good enough. A bank here has offered the Soccer league money for a new stadium seating 40,000 people, but the managers are still mulling over it.

BASEBALL—Attendance is up 50 per cent over last year and 100 per cent better than the year before. Jorge Pasquel, president of the Mexican Major league, says it's because "Mexico is growing bigger and the people are progressing."

Another reason may be that the sport is gaining more Mexican flavor and is losing its dependence on foreign stars. Names like Carranza and Salinas are leading the batting averages instead of Dandridge, Wells and Smith. The league has limited its six clubs to two foreign pitchers apiece, now that home-grown hurlers are coming to market.

BULL-FIGHTING—Antonio Alarga, who runs the Mexico City ring, says he still gets good crowds when a popular fighter appears.

Alarga says bull fight fans are like Dodge fans—if necessary they buy tickets with the rent money. However, bull fighting is not a poor man's game. The cheapest seats cost 250 pesos, a day's wage for a laborer. And the good seats, after the scalpers handle them, cost up to 20 pesos.

RACING—This is something new for the capital, so it can't be compared with previous years. But opening day attendance was over 40,000, a new high for sports crowds in Mexico. The record was broken a couple of times later in the season.

Nobody has totalled the betting publicly, but President Bruno Paglia, who ran the Agua Caliente track near the California border, has been smiling all season. Purses have been boosted.

It seems that the horse is here to stay. One reason is that racing provides the only legal betting in the country. And betting goes with sports here, where the average Mexican will spend hours watching pennies for lack of something better. Furthermore, Mexicans love horses and the SRO signs go up even at polo matches.

HERE IS A FARM IN A CLASS BY ITSELF!
Forty-one acres located just out of the city limits on Route 45. Children are hauled to Salem schools. Excellent neighborhood. Bus service past your door. Is improved with a very good 6-room house with electric, furnace and bath. House wired for electric stove. This house is nicely planned and is under good slate roof. Yankee barn 36x40. Water in barn. Chicken house 18x36 and other necessary outbuildings.
This land is in a high state of cultivation and pasture is watered by never-failing spring. This entire farm is well under-drained. Nice young apple orchard. You can market your fruit and produce right at your door. Now, if you would like to own a farm and a home that you would be proud to show your relatives and friends, act at once. It is very unusual to find such a fine home in this excellent neighborhood and location. For prompt action I can sell this farm to you at the very reasonable price of $10,000.
